

Maranoa Lullaby

Day now folds its wings, Sleep while mo - ther sings,

Dark the night and deep, Lit - tle one now sleep.

Soft the bree - zes blow, Rock you to and fro,

While the stars a - bove Shine on you with love.

Day now folds its wings,
Sleep while mother sings,
Dark the night and deep,
Little one now sleep.
Soft the breezes blow,
Rock you to and fro,
While the stars above
Shine on you with love.

Gently close eyes,
Now the moon will rise,
With the morning light,
Stars are put to flight.
Day now folds its wings
Sleep while mother sings,
Dark the night and deep,
Little one now sleep.