

The Twelve Apostles

Come, I will sing to you. What will you sing to me?
I will sing you one oh! What may your one oh be?
One and one and all a - lone and ev - er more shall be oh.

(1st Voice) Come, I will sing to you
(2nd voice) What will you sing to me?
(1st voice) I will sing you one oh!
(2nd voice) What may be your one oh?
(1st voice) One is one and all alone, and ever more shall be so.

(1st Voice) Come, I will sing to you
(2nd voice) What will you sing to me?
(1st voice) I will sing you two oh!
(2nd voice) What may be your two oh?
(1st voice) Two of them are lilywhite babes, Cloth-ed all in green oh!!
(Both) One is one and all alone, and ever more shall be so.

(1st Voice) Come, I will sing to you
(2nd voice) What will you sing to me?
(1st voice) I will sing you three oh!
(2nd voice) What may be your three oh?
(1st voice) Three of them are thrivers
(Both) Two of them are lilywhite babes, Cloth-ed all in green oh!!
One is one and all alone, and ever more shall be so.

[These three verses indicate the plan of the song, each new number being followed by the whole of those

Four are the Gospel preachers

Five are the flamboys all in a row

Six are the six bold waiters

Seven are the seven stars in the sky

Eight are the Gabriel angels

Nine and nine of the brightest shine

Ten are the ten command-e-ments

Eleven and eleven went up to heaven

Twelve are the twelve apostles.